RECORD

Each Halo record is rated on six things. Five or more Strong and the car has earned its Halo.

This one is Strong on four. Every rating comes from what is on the record, listed at the back of the book.

Recorded

Halo's value for this car that week, saved at the time.

$3.88M · Halo, 23 Nov 2026

Reconstructed

Worked out on 23 Nov 2026 from the sales of that time, for a typical car of the same version. Not what Halo said then.

c. $1.27M · reconstructed for Dec 2017 · 6 sales

Blue is what Halo said. Black is what happened: sales, the car's own events, when it left. Green and red are market moves only. No price paid or received appears in this book.

Halo provides market information and analytical estimates for informational purposes. Estimates are not guarantees, investment advice, appraisals, tax, legal or insurance advice, and do not replace a physical inspection or a formal insurance valuation. Halo records what the papers and the owner say; it does not certify authenticity or condition.

Example document. The cars, their owners, histories and papers are fictional. The values are Halo’s, worked out from real sales.
